North East London Foundation Trust commissioned AK Design Partnership to facilitate a change of use and subsequent conversion of a car showroom at 306 London Road to non-residential first-class healthcare facility. The proposal included the addition of four new windows to the front facade to soften the view (ground and first). The replacement of two sliding doors with fixed glazing. Materials matched existing materials and design. New signage was added with the addition of external lighting to illuminate the signage, finally a cantilevered brise soleil was installed to the ground floor to reduce the glare.
